ABSTRACT

This bibliography of media selection tools lists review and evaluation sources published primarily since 1975 to assist school systems in locating and selecting library materials for students. The first of four sections provides a comprehensive alphabetical listing by title which includes publisher and price, as well as a brief annotation, for each item. The second section groups the sources into 15 subject categories: art, computers, consumer education, early childhood, foreign language, gifted and talented, health/physical education/safety/sports, language arts, mathematics, multicultural education, music, science, sex equity, social studies, and the special child. The small list of reference sources in the third section, which is divided by school levels, is considered as a bare minimum for building library media center collections at the individual school level. The final section is a directory of publishers. (RAA)

INTRODUCTION

The School Media Services Branch, Division of Library Development and Services, Maryland State Department of Education, has made a commitment to find methods for assisting local educational agencies in implementing their selection and evaluation policies and procedures. Use of selection reviewing sources is certainly a part of many of Maryland's local policies. Selection tools provide background information, varying points of view, critiques of materials and resources, and suggestions for use of materials within the classroom. A knowledge of the availability of current reviewing sources through this bibliography should help school systems in locating and selecting materials for students from both local funds and federal funds such as ESEA IV-B.

This document includes review and evaluation sources published primarily since 1975. It is arranged in four sections. The first section includes an alphabetical title listing of all chosen selection sources. In the second section, the sources are grouped in subject categories. An effort was made in the third section, by the School Media Services staff members, to identify a small list by school level which might be considered a bare minimum for building library media center collections at an individual school level. These sources would represent a minimal level of selection resource support. The fourth and final section provides information on selection sources by publishers and their addresses.

It is the intent of the School Media Services Branch that this document be used by school library media specialists and teachers in identifying those evaluation and selection sources which provide information about print and nonprint materials to support students' educational endeavors. A major contributor and compiler of this bibliography was Mrs. Rosa Presberry, Staff Specialist in Special Programs.
